

STATUE TO GEN BARLOW

DEDICATED BY NEW YORK STATE AND VETERANS.

Accepted by the Gettysburg Battle-Sold Commission—Many Prominent Guests Attend Ceremony.

The State of New York has honored one of her illustrious sons, a hero of the Battle of Gettysburg, by the erection of a bronze statue of heroic size to Major General Francis Channing Barlow at Barlow's Knoll, north of town, on the line of battle of the First Day's fight.

The memorial was dedicated on Tuesday, June 6th. The official train bearing the party to the dedication left New York City Monday morning, arriving here in the afternoon, and had their headquarters at the Eagle Hotel. The party was made up of members of the New York Monument Commission, State officials, those having parts in the program, and survivors of the 41st, 54th, and 68th New York Regiments, which Gen Barlow commanded during the battle. The party visiting the battlefield Tuesday morning, and on Wednesday made an automobile trip to the battlefield of Antietam, and left Gettysburg Thursday morning. Over a hundred veterans and others were in the party.

The Citizens' Band of Gettysburg led the procession to Barlow's Knoll and furnished the music for the dedication. The program was as follows:

Music, Citizens' Band of Gettysburg.

Prayer, the Rev. Luther D. Gable, of Brooklyn.

Introductory Remarks, Colonel Lewis R. Stegman, Chairman of the Board of Commissioners.

Music, Citizens' Band.

Unveiling of the Statue by Miss Frances Barlow Jay, granddaughter of Gen. Barlow.

Salute, by detail from the Reserve Officers' Training Corps, Gettysburg College.

Oration, by John J. Lyons, Secretary of State, New York.

Poem, "Francis Channing Barlow—Hero," by Joseph I. C. Clarke.

Addresses, by Members of the Legislature.

Music, Citizens' Band.

Benediction, the Rev. Luther D. Gable.

Colonel E. B. Cope, Superintendent of the Battlefield, briefly accepted the memorial, a sudden shower of rain stopping the exercises, as follows:

"At the dedication of the Reynolds Statue on the First Day's Battlefield General Chamberlain said: 'I honor any State that honors her soldiers. New York has always honored her soldiers.'

"This statue, dedicated to-day, is one of the many beautiful and substantial evidences of that fact. Almost losing his life in defending this hill, the right flank of the line of battle, General Barlow lay on this ground badly wounded near death, but he was saved by the tender nursing of his devoted wife, who, fortunately was near and was brought through the Confederate lines to his side.

"This fine statue is a splendid tribute to his memory and will be preserved and protected for all time. 'On behalf of the United States, it is with pleasure that I receive this statue erected to Major General Francis C. Barlow, for perpetual care and preservation.'

In the presentation of the memorial, Hon. John J. Lyons, Secretary of State of New York, said in part:

"This is Gettysburg, and here nearly sixty years ago was fought one of the decisive battles of all time. To-day, representing the State of New York, we have assembled to dedicate a monument to the memory of the late Major-General Francis C. Barlow, of Brooklyn, New York, who fought here in defense of the Union during the Civil War.

"The State of New York and its people and the people of every State in our Union, which he fought so gallantly to maintain, owe a tribute of reverence and gratitude to the memory of this great American. And this tribute will be given unitedly by all, for every echo of the bitterness of that war is past; there is no longer a North and a South.

"It is fitting that a monument to the heroic General Barlow should be erected on the sacred soil of Gettysburg. It was here the struggle to preserve our Republic reached its highest mark and it was here—where his statue now stands—that Barlow was struck down in the struggle and came close to giving 'the last full measure of devotion.'

sacred and silent city of the dead at Gettysburg.

"General Barlow's services to the Nation—and I am proud to recall that in one of his offices he was my predecessor—his high integrity, his determined principles and fine sense of duty leave us a record of living that must be an inspiration to all of us. The keynote of Barlow's life, as it was of his Martyr-Chief's, was a courageous sense of duty that directed his everyday services to his country's good in whatever position he found himself. Men of his type laid the foundations of our Republic in the days of the Revolution, strengthened these foundations in the Civil War, and it is men of his type who are working to-day to preserve the finest ideals of our Nation.

"Like most of the strong men of his period—and every other period of our history—General Barlow was born into a good and simple home. He must have learned in that home-atmosphere of plain living and high thinking the worth of integrity and of perseverance in hard-hitting effort. For whether as student, soldier, public servant in high office, or as a lawyer Barlow always came out at the head of his class; clean, earnest and progressive, equally alert to the community's needs of development and reform.

"He had decision and courage too; at the first call of his country in '61 he threw everything aside and enlisted as a private in the National Guard of New York State. Within a year he had run almost the whole gamut of military promotion; his valor and ability on the field actually won for him the post of Brigadier-General before he was 28 years old. Every American must be proud of the patriotism and iron determination of this man, grievously wounded in two different battles and once carried off a prisoner—but always returning to his regiment at the earliest opportunity. And it is a notable fact that his courage and skill were only intensified by these disasters, for on each return to the battle front his services became more brilliant.

"It is not remarkable that the people of New York State tried to keep him in their service when he returned to civil life. They elected him Secretary of New York. President Grant appointed him a United States Marshal, and he again held office as Attorney General of New York State.

"It was in memory of this great American which brought us to Gettysburg, but we inevitably recall here that there can be only one Lincoln and one Gettysburg. Their message to humanity is enduring. They still plead to us for the Brotherhood of Man. They call to Europe too.

"If my voice could reach all the Statesmen of Europe I could call on them to look to Gettysburg for the inspiration and the way to a genuine peace. The still army of Gettysburg radios them.

"But to no one can Gettysburg and its heroes speak as they did to us—citizens of America—to whom every rod of this ground is sacred. Can you not hear their call to us?

"You who have built great cities, climbing into the skies, beyond the dreams of man—who have netted this continent with highways and railways—who have conquered the realms of the air and penetrated to the uttermost depths of the sea—what have you done in all this to realize the fundamental American ideals of the Brotherhood of Man?

"Fellow countrymen, the practical adaptation of those ideals to an everyday use and the advantage of humanity is our task in the immediate future. The world is changing rapidly since the war. The political consciences of our people has awakened as it did in '76 and '61. There is a new sense of responsibility in the strong—and added sense of equality of the weak—a growing desire for more justice between all.

"To seize our opportunity there is necessary a great spontaneous effort at national and individual co-operation to draw us up again to the high water mark of American ideals as they rose in the days of Washington and Lincoln. Here to-day recalling the devotion to our country, the integrity and high services of General Barlow and his comrades—let us in the words of Lincoln on this field of honor 'let us be dedicated to the great task remaining before us.'

"The State of New York now delivers into the fraternal and reverend care of the United States Government this monument to one of its many heroes erected by an Act of our Legislature under the supervision of its Monument Commission in the National Cemetery at Gettysburg."

COLLEGE SENIOR DROWNS

WHILE SWIMMING AT DICK'S DAM, CONEWAGO CREEK.

Hubert M. Linn Would Have Been Graduated from Gettysburg College Next Week.

On Tuesday afternoon within a week and a day of his Commencement at Gettysburg College, Hubert M. Linn was drowned while swimming in Conewago Creek at Dick's Dam. A party of six members of the Druid Fraternity went on an outing to Dick's Dam, Hubert Linn being one of the party. After arriving there swimming was proposed and five of them entered the water. After being in the water awhile one of the party, said to have been the best swimmer started for the bridge to dive from it and the other four started to swim across the stream, with Linn in the rear. When those leading reached the other side they heard Linn calling for help. Two went to his help but he was difficult to handle, thrashing about and he did not appear after the first time he went down in eight feet of water.

The body was not located for an hour. The pulmotor of the Hanover community was secured and used for more than two hours and Dr. J. L. Sheetz of New Oxford administered hypodermic restoratives upon his arrival. The opinion was that Linn had been seized with cramps while overexerting in trying to swim the creek about 150 yards wide at the place. The body was brought to the funeral parlors of H. B. Bender and Son, of Gettysburg and prepared for burial. Mr. Linn is a son of the Rev. and Mrs. J. A. Linn, of Rockwell, N. C., and is about 23 years old. He leaves besides his parents, three brothers, two of whom are said to be in foreign missionary fields.

Young Mr. Linn entered Gettysburg College in his Sophomore year having previously attended Roanoke College, Va. From the first he was held in high regard both by his fellow-students and teachers. He was an industrious student and stood high in his class in scholarship. He was to have received his Bachelor of Arts degree next Wednesday.

While in College, he was a member of the debating team and won many honors because of his forensic ability. He sang bass on the College Glee Club three years and also sang with the choir at the local Presbyterian Church. Last Sunday night he sang a bass solo at this church which was to have been his last appearance until he returned in the fall when he had expected to enter Seminary in preparation for the ministry.

College students and faculty joined in funeral services in Brucia Chapel on Wednesday afternoon. Rev. Dr. I. B. Baker delivering the eulogy. He was assisted in the service by the Rev. W. C. Robinson. After the services the body was shipped to his home in Rockwell, N. C.

MEADE AND HIGH SCHOOL

HOLD COMMENCEMENTS ON THURSDAY AND FRIDAY LAST.

Fifty-two Graduates from High School and Same Number Ready for High School at Meade.

One big meaning of the Commencement season of the schools of Gettysburg is the sure growth of the classes in High School and the greater crowding of the pupils in the present building. There is no other solution to this problem than a new big High School building. The present building is simply packed, rooms and halls. Many children must be exposed to drafts in halls that adds a risk to their health. Fifty two graduated from High School on last Friday evening, and not quite half entering our High School from the country. This outgoing class of 52 will be making room for an incoming class, and our Grammar School can furnish 52 for the Freshman Class and in the county ninety-nine pupils qualified themselves for entrance to High School and the proportion of these who will come to Gettysburg will make a Freshman class of likely 75 to 80. Already swamped our most efficient High School Faculty will soon hardly be able to find desk or sitting room for the students who desire to avail themselves of the excellent school advantages of their county seat.

The 52 graduates at Meade School on Thursday evening of last week were Thelma Adair, Clara Baker, Madolyn Culp, Gladys Daniels, Beulah Furney, Thomas Frame, Sara Galbraith, Anna Geiselman, Agatha Hagen, Miriam Hartzell, Glenn Harman, Welty Kadel, Glenna Kime, Grace Leister, Charles Lawver, Fred Mehrling, John Mumper, Edith Minter, Mildred Myers, Carlton Nau, Javens Plank, Conrad Pierce, Eva Raffensperger, Josephine Rebert, Caroline Rupp, Beulah Shank, Helen Stallsmith, Elizabeth Stallsmith, Wayne Shultz, Leslie Staley, Elizabeth Swisher, Evelyn Thomas, Kathleen Thomas, Margaret Trimmer, Edward Utz, Elmer Warren, Bradley Wible, Earl Wineman, Elizabeth Woods, Claire Eden, Howard Kitzmiller, Charles Lightner, Wilbur Moser, Chauncey Buohl, John Lott, William Beales, Arthur Buohl, Milton Plank, Ellsworth Woodward, Kathryn Sheads, Donald Olinger, Emory Sterner.

The exercises consisted of an operetta entitled "Frog Prince" given under the direction of Miss Emma Baldwin, superintendent of Music in our schools. County Superintendent, W. Raymond Shank addressed the meeting, Allan B. Plank of School Board presented the certificates of promotion and Dr. Frank Kramer of College presented the Eckert Trophy to the Meade Building. The graduating class sang a song entitled "Farewell" accompanied on piano by Clara Baker.

The winners of the McPherson Memorial prizes were, Helen Stallsmith of the girls $10 for the highest scholastic prize with average of 95.3 and Miriam Hartzell, with honorable mention with average of 92.1. John Mumper of the boys received $10 for average of 87.3 and honorable mention to Javens Plank and Charles Lawver tie with an average of 85.8. The Crouse memorial prize went to Raymond Sheely for highest scholastic honors in Fifth grade and Josephine Miller took spelling prize with average of 99.7.

High School Commencement.

Lincoln Way Theatre was filled on Friday evening at the graduating exercises of the High School. Rev. Harry Daniels, pastor of the Methodist Church addressed the class and among other things said: "Be a worker and not a shirker the world owes you nothing while the debt that you owe to the world, you will never be able to repay. We are heirs of all those who have gone before us, the great advantages which we now enjoy, our forefathers have left here. Work is the greatest gift that has been given to man. All work is honorable, although false distinctions have been made against many lines of manual labor. Be givers and not getters also a possessor and not a professor. Education starts a young man out to a broader field where he may develop himself."

The Salutatory was by Miss Elizabeth Schriver and her subject was "Our New Era."

Miss Vestal Stallsmith was the Valedictorian and took as her theme the class motto, "The End Crowns the Work." The Class poem "Reflection" was read by Miss Marianna Jones. Three themes of a problem "Group Control" were presented by Alva Brown, Charles Landis and Milo Wetzel. Rumors was given by Misses Leona Hankey, Mildred Beiler, Martha Hartman, Margaret Taylor, Ida Hartley and Nary Durboraw. Presentations under "Mosaics" created amusement, and were given by Indus Olyer, Madeleine Troxell, Sigurd Hagen and James Swope.

Mrs. Walter O'Neal, Regent of Gettysburg Chapter D. A. R. presented the $5 prize for best essay on "Daniel Boone, Frontiersman" to Elizabeth Schriver and second prize of $2.50 to Esther Zeiders and honorable mention to Ruth Sachs and Sigurd Hagen.

Rear End Collision.

A rear-end collision occurred on the Western Maryland Railway at Brush Run, two miles beyond New Oxford, on Tuesday afternoon, when a local freight struck a through freight. The caboose on the through train was derailed and a B. & O. hopper was knocked off its trucks. The local freight had gone on a siding at New Oxford to allow the through train, pulled by one of the 900 locomotives to pass. The through freight was pulled in half while in motion at Brush Run. It was when a stop was made to couple the train that the crash came. It took an hour to clean up the wreck and a passenger train was delayed while the work was going on.

THE PINCHOT EXPOSURE

HELD UP TO SCORN IN THE UNITED STATES SENATE.

For the Expenditure of Almost Double
in Four Years.

Senator Harrison in the United States Senate held up to scorn last week the expenditure of Mr. and Mrs. Pinchot of more than $120,000 to finance Pinchot's primary campaign for the Republican nomination for Governor and denounced as worse than the Newberry case, for Newberry, he said, maintained that he did not know what was going on in Michigan, while Mr. Pinchot admitted under oath what the Pennsylvania gubernatorial nomination cost himself, Mrs. Pinchot, and others.

"The eyes of the country were recently focused on two primary fights, one in Indiana between Mr. Beveridge and Senator New, the other a contest for the Republican nomination for Governor of Pennsylvania between Mr. Pinchot and Mr. Alter," said Senator Harrison.

"The attention of the country was concentrated on the fight in Indiana, because the Administration was strongly supporting Senator New, and his friends made the most of that support. He had stood by the Administration in this chamber as perhaps no other Senator had, and he was entitled to that support.

"The night before the election in Indiana Mr. King—I believe that was his name—the campaign manager for Senator New, issued a statement in which he said that in no speech had Mr. Beveridge praised the work of this Administration. So the country interpreted the result as a repudiation of the Administration.

"The other contest was waged in Pennsylvania. The country received the result in that State as glad tidings, for the country thought Pinchot had smashed the old reactionary machine in Pennsylvania which had so long dominated politics in that State. The people knew that Pinchot was not pleasing to the Administration and they accepted his nomination as a victory for progressivism in Pennsylvania.

"Now it pains those of us who believe in progressive principles, who believe in the great masses having a voice in the running of the Government, to read the reports of expenditures in that campaign and to realize that the man who has been known as one of the chief apostles of progressivism, although he was termed by the late Senator Penrose as the 'tree doctor,' should have forgotten the teachings of progressivism and expended some $93,000 of his own money and $29,500 more he received from his wife.

"The Newberry case sinks into insignificance when we analyze this campaign for a gubernatorial nomination in Pennsylvania. Of course, Senators who voted to seat the Senator from Michigan and who endorsed the manner of his nomination can have no complaint. They can find no fault, because they approved it by their votes in the Newberry case.

"Of course, under the leadership of the Senator from Missouri, Mr. Spencer, and under the authority of the Senator from Ohio, Mr. Willis, they did get themselves into something of a mess. They did kind of relieve their consciences to some extent by adopting a condition to the resolution that seated Senator Newberry, which condition, placed there by the majority, condemned excessive expenditures in campaigns for office.

"I suppose Pinchot did not believe what you, on that side, said, for in his sworn statement he said that he spent ninety-odd thousands of his own and more than $29,000 of his wife's money.

"The Senator from Michigan says that the money spent in that State was expended without his knowledge. Pinchot, 'the Progressive,' says under oath that he and his wife contributed about $120,000 to bring about his nomination for Governor of Pennsylvania.

"The Willis proviso to the Newberry resolution said the expenditure of such large sums was contrary to sound public policy and harmful to the dignity and honor of the Senate. I suppose the Senator from Ohio and other Senators who voted to seat Mr. Newberry will say that the proviso did not apply to the Governorship of Pennsylvania, that they had formed the habit in that State and were just keeping up the custom.

"We find that some so-called Progressives are willing to reform along certain lines. They reform up to a certain point, but when it comes to the expenditure of large sums to be elected to office they are not such reformers.

"Out in Indiana, where Mr. Beveridge won, he did not file any account at all. Nobody knows how much Beveridge, the so-called Progressive, spent in Indiana. But we do know how much Pinchot, who was running for a State office, spent and we know that Pinchot the Progressive, who is now willing to support Harding, the reactionary, for another term, spent $93,000 of his own and $29,500 of his wife's money.

"It is dangerous to spend such huge sums to elect men to the Senate, why is it not dangerous to the perpetuity of free government—that is what the Willis proviso, says—to elect them to State office?"

Senator King, of Utah, interrupted Mr. Harrison to ask why he called Pinchot and Beveridge "Progressives."

"I called them 'so-called Progressives,' the Mississippi Senator replied.

"Oh, I see," said Mr. King. "They are like near beer, one-half of one per cent, or such a matter."

"So we have about come to the point of believing that a Progressive Republican has about as little respect in limiting his expenditures as a reactionary Republican has. If a man, because he is enormously wealthy spends an eighth of a million in a primary, how much will he spend in the general election?"

"The candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania on the Democratic ticket is a poor man. He is a farmer, the head of the State Grange. He will never be able to get around the first heat if Pinchot is to continue to pour out lavishly such sums as he used in the primary.

"I have merely called the attention of the Senate to this matter so that something may be done. We, of course, have no jurisdiction, but something should be done to prevent the pollution of elections and the control of the nomination of public servants for office."

McSparan Speaks.

John A. McSparan, Democratic candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania, gave a constructive criticism of State governmental affairs at a recent meeting of the Pomona Grange, of Dauphin county.

He attacked the growing tendency toward centralization in government in the State, with its attendant evils of high taxation, waste and lack of efficiency. He interpreted as a sign of public awakening the increased interest of the citizens of the State in their government.

"The war gave us a good viewpoint on how much bearing government has on living conditions and the home," he said. "We now see a different citizenship. People are beginning to realize the part government plays in their lives."

He traced the spread of the centralization system in the State's government.

"The Health Department was an outcome of this," he said. "No reports are issued on the number of people the department employs, but the number runs into the thousands."

Discussing the Highway Department, he contrasted townships where a nine inch stone road was built for $1350 a mile with concrete roads paid for by the State at $60,000 to $75,000 a mile.

"This may not be successful road building," he said, "but its tremendous success to a political machine."

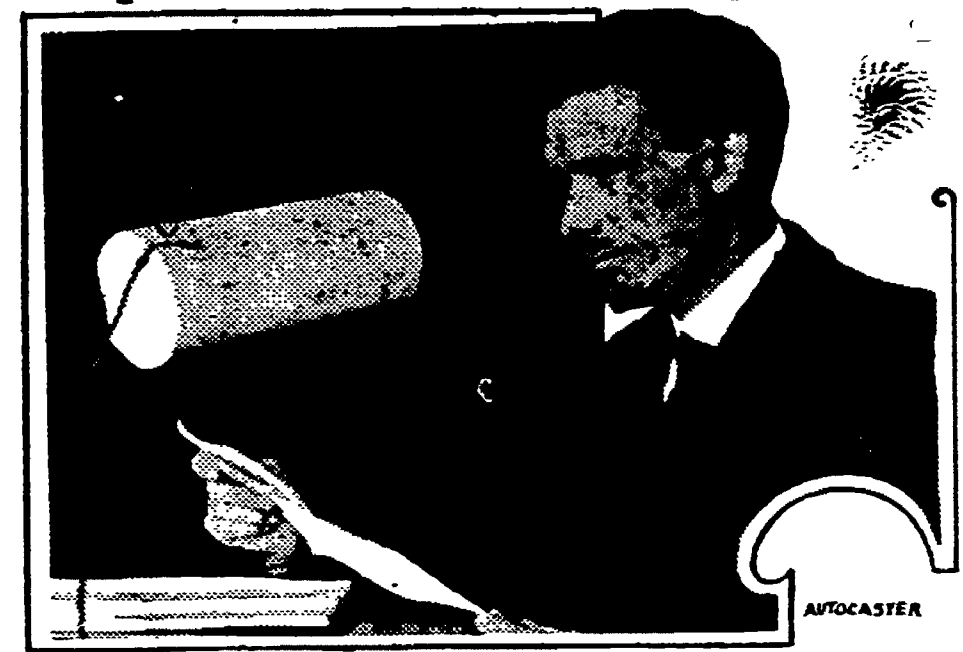

As a remedy, he urged greater cooperation between the State Highway Department and the township, borough and county authorities. He said that if contracts were given to well-governed municipalities, they could buy machinery with which they could do their own road work at a substantial saving.

Continuing his criticism of the centralization system, he referred to the Department of Public Welfare and its plans to extend control over hospitals.

"I read the other day," he said, "where the State reached out into Perry county and told the people there that they should build a $75,000 jail as Perry county people say, to entertain hoboes who come along the Pennsylvania railroad."

"I don't see any reason why jails should be made especially attractive.

Keeps Farmers Posted by Radio

This is a photograph of Herschel Jones, director of the New York office, New York State Department of Farms and Markets, whose duty it is to assist farmers in marketing their crops. He reports prices and conditions every day, sending from the Westinghouse station at Newark, N. J.

Besides, why shouldn't Perry county people have something to say about it?"

"If there were any efficiency in the centralization system as it is conducted, it has not become apparent. In some communities the school tax is thirty-five mills alone, in addition to per capita tax.

"We must simplify the government or we are going to have trouble keeping our homes."

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces of the throat. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. All Druggists, 75c. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

SLEEP PRICE OF MAN'S LIFE

DRIVER OF PRODUCE WAGON FALLS TO HIS DEATH.

Fatal Accident at a Lath Mill, a Log
Driven at Man's Face Fractures Skull.

Samuel Wolf, an employee of the Curtis E. Diehl, produce man of New Oxford, on last Friday evening was thrown from the wagon in which he rode and struck his head against the stone wall at the Swift Run bridge, sustaining a fractured skull, causing instant death.

The accident occurred at about 5 P. M. and later the team arrived at Mr. Diehl's place without any damage, with lines hanging up and the light was not burning. From these and other circumstances it is believed that Mr. Wolf had fallen asleep and was jolted out by wheel of wagon striking the stone wall. When body was found a heavy blanket was wrapped around the shoulders. He wore no coat and when last seen had the blanket about his shoulders. Relatives further state that he had been subject to spells of illness, attended with fainting. The body was found shortly after the accident and Dr. C. G. Crist, coroner of the county notified. He deemed an inquest unnecessary and pronounced Mr. Wolf's death purely accidental. The evidence was conclusive that the man was thrown from the wagon against the wing walls of the bridge, fracturing his skull and causing instant death.

The remains were taken in charge by funeral director W. A. Feiser and removed to his home in New Oxford. Mr. Wolf was about 39 years of age and leaves a wife who was Miss Mary Shell, who has been an invalid for over two years, and a daughter, Mabel, aged 13 years. He is also survived by two brothers, John and Milton Wolf, of New Oxford, and three sisters, Miss Nannie Wolf, of Hanover; Miss Emma Wolf, of New Oxford; and Miss Mary Wolf, of New Oxford. Funeral was on Monday, June 5, with services by Rev. W. M. Allison, of the First Lutheran Church officiating, and interment in the New Oxford Cemetery.

Ralph Fenton, of near Wenksville, received fatal injuries while engaged in working at the lath mill of Henry Taylor, Tuesday, from which he died the same night in the Annie M. Warner Hospital, Gettysburg. The accident happened at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon as the man was employed at a circular saw. In some manner, it is said, a small piece of timber which he was attempting to cut on the rip saw, where he was engaged in cutting plastering lath, was caught and hurled with great force, striking him on the left side of the face just below the eyes. The force of the blow was so great that his face was crushed. A physician was called and rendered first aid treatment and the man was placed upon a small truck and taken to the hospital. Upon admittance at the hospital examination revealed that the man's skull was fractured and little hope was entertained for his recovery. He succumbed to his injuries at 10:40 o'clock. Mr. Fenton was about 40 years of age and married. His wife, who survives him, was Miss Ada Taylor, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Taylor. The couple had no children. He was a son of the late Robert Fenton and is survived by two brothers and one sister, Charles Fenton, of Shippensburg; John Fenton and Miss Mary Fenton, of Mechanicsburg. Funeral services will be on Saturday morning by the Rev. J. J. Martin, pastor of the Wenksville Methodist Episcopal Church, in which Mr. Fenton was an active member. At the time of his death he was superintendent of the Sunday School. Interment in the Wenksville Cemetery.

When but sixteen years of age he went to Lewisburg, Ohio, where he spent the greater part of his long life. In 1853 he was united in marriage to a Miss Hoffman, daughter of Eli Hoffman, who died several years later. On his return he secured employment at the plant of the Hanover Cordage Company, which position he held until five months ago, when ill health probably brought on by being slightly gassed while overseas, compelled him to give up work. Two weeks ago he was taken to Mont Alto, but his condition grew worse and he was suddenly struck with a heart attack while out for a walk, accompanied by one of the nurses. Death followed in a short while. Private Zinn leaves a wife, who was Miss Blanche Dell, daughter of Mrs. Mary Dell, of Hanover; and an infant daughter Mary, aged 3 months; also his parents, one brother, Thomas Zinn, of Hummelstown, and four sisters, Mrs. Dewey Walker, of Pittsburgh; Mrs. Clayton Palmer, of Hanover; Misses Marie and Mary Zinn, at home. Aubrey Bowers, aged 22 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Bowers, of Germany township, committed suicide in a room in the Ridgeway Hotel, Camden, N. J., on last Friday night by shooting himself through the right temple with a revolver. The cause of the act is not definitely known, although a letter on his person when found, to a girl he had been paying attention to, is thought to have been the cause of the suicide. It is claimed that since this girl, who resides in Camden, was married, some time ago, Bowers had been in a despondent mood. His parents say that he left his home on Wednesday morning to go to Hanover to draw back pay from the cigar factory where he was employed. The young man was aged 22 years, 4 months and 25 days. He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Bowers, with whom he resided, and three brothers and two sisters, Ray Bowers, of Edgmont, Md.; Ross and Gernie Bowers, at home; Mrs. Joseph Frankford, of Baltimore, and Miss Anna Bowers, at home. His pay will be what he makes it, besides fine prize, and free movie tickets. Gilbert, "Personal," 3rd floor, 119 West 40th Street, New York City. DON'T RISK NEGLECT.

Don't neglect a constant backache, sharp, darting pains or urinary disorders. The danger of dropsy or Bright's disease is too serious to ignore. Use Doan's Kidney Pills as have your friends and neighbors. Ask your neighbor. A Gettysburg case.

Mrs. Elia Little, 20 Breckenridge St., says: "There are no words of praise good enough for Doan's Kidney Pills. It was only about a year ago that my kidneys were in a very bad condition. I had a stiffness through my limbs, but it was backache that gave me the most trouble. Sharp pains started through my back very often when I would be working around during the day. I suffered severely when I did any stooping work and no one knows what a time of it I had. Dizziness annoyed me so I thought more than once that I would fall over with it. I was very much run down and my nerves gave out altogether. Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended to me and I lost no time in getting some at the People's Drug Store. I was rid of the backache and dizzy spells and other signs of kidney complaint. My back and kidneys were put in proper condition, too."
